

MORWELL STATION

New car park

Construction underway

About the works

The Victorian Government is upgrading car parking at Morwell Station as part of the Gippsland Rail Corridor Station Upgrade Program to meet the growing demand for commuter car parking in the area.

The upgrade will deliver up to 53 additional car parks at the station, including two new accessible spaces, and improve safety and security with the installation of CCTV and lighting.

What's happening

Construction on the new car park is underway and expected to be completed in 2020.

Over the coming weeks a small number of spaces within the existing car park will be closed temporarily while work to upgrade accessibility parking takes place. The closed car parking will be clearly marked with bollards and tape.

Most of the remaining construction work will be completed within the site boundaries located north west of the station off Princes Drive, as per the above map.

Station access and traffic impacts

Commuters can continue to access the station and the existing car park as normal. There will be no impact to train or bus services as a result of the car park project.

Minimising community impacts

Work is taking place Monday to Friday, 7am to 6pm. Some works may take place on Saturdays and weeknights if required. Local residents may notice slightly increased traffic in the area.

Where possible, we'll minimise disruption to surrounding businesses, residents and station users by:

- scheduling noisy works during normal working hours
- using noise-reduced equipment.

We will notify the community if there are significant changes to the program.

Regional Car Parks Fund

The Victorian Government is also delivering free car parks across Ballarat, Traralgon and Morwell, to take the pressure off local streets and make it easier for people to get to work, education, and appointments.
